THE ECONOMIC VALUE OF
THE UNITED STATES MERCHANT MARINE

by . . . . . Allen R. Ferguson, Eugene M. Lerner, John S. McGee, Walter Y. Oi, Leonard A. Rapping, and Stephen P. Sobotka

The book represents the final report of a major research project conducted at the Transportation Center over the past three years. Subject of the research was the question of the contribution made to the economy of the United States by the merchant marine program and fleet, exclusive of their military value. The main conclusion derived from the research -- there is no justification for the subsidization of the U.S. maritime industry on economic grounds.

A valuable reference book published in a limited edition. Copies are available by filling out and returning the form below to: The Transportation Center, PUBLICATIONS, 1804 Hinman Avenue, Evanston, Illinois.

INTRODUCTION

THE TRANSPORTATION CENTER at Northwestern University began its formal program in the autumn of 1956. Since then it has assumed progressively greater importance as a national center for education, basic research, and service to the transportation industry and the nation.

THE CENTER'S RESEARCH PROGRAM is planned to provide a better understanding of transportation, its relationship to the economy, and its contribution to national economic growth. In pursuing these objectives, the research program draws upon authorities in various sciences at Northwestern University as well as other institutions throughout the nation.

THE EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM is concerned with encouraging outstanding scholars at Northwestern and other universities to apply their disciplines to the field of transportation. In addition to the academic program, the Center presents the results of university research and the principles of various disciplines to executives in the industry through a series of short courses and conferences.

ACTIVITIES OF THE TRANSPORTATION CENTER are guided by a national Advisory Committee of business and community leaders. Over 100 companies in air, highway, oil, pipeline, rail, water transportation, and general business contribute to the support of the Transportation Center.

AN IMPORTANT NEW BOOK

Published by . . . . THE TRANSPORTATION CENTER
at Northwestern University

SURVEY OF TRANSPORTATION EDUCATION in AMERICAN COLLEGES and UNIVERSITIES

The results of a comprehensive survey of transportation education program in American colleges and universities has been published in book form and is now available from the Transportation Center at Northwestern University.

Over 2,000 institutions of higher education were included in the survey. The book gives approximately 220 descriptive programs which vary from an institute or school of transportation to a single course in a department.

The survey was made specifically to help vocational guidance counselors in high schools - graduate counselors in colleges and universities - and personnel and training directors in transportation and general industries decide what and where the best transportation educational opportunities for their specific needs were.

To obtain a copy fill out and return the form below to: The Transportation Center, PUBLICATIONS, 1804 Hinman Avenue, Evanston, Illinois.
